

From Charlotte to Twilight

The title of "The Boys of Twilight," a CBS midseason replacement debuting tonight, refers to veterans Richard Farnsworth and Wilford Brimley, who play a crusty sheriff and his corpulent deputy in a Western resort. But at least one of the leads is at the dawn of his career: Ben Browder, an actor who once worked with Charlotte Shakespeare Company and Tarradiddle Players.

Browder

Browder, 29, has had small roles in the movie "A Kiss Before Dying" and a Broadway production of "The Merchant of Venice." This is his big break, at least financially: He gets fourth billing (behind Louise Fletcher) as Tyler Clare, a green deputy newly appointed by the mayor, his aunt.
